A DICTIONARY OF NEW TESTAMENT GREEK SYNONYMS

GEORGE RICKER BERRY

As author Berry states, "A careful discrimination between synonyms in the study of any language is a matter of the utmost importance." With clear and concise definitions, Berry distinguishes 293 synonyms and provides a useful tool for every student of the New Testament.

Berry's synonym studies were originally part of his book A New Greek-English Lexicon to the New Testament, published by Wilcox & Follett in 1897. This volume contained a 110-page lexicon plus a 21-page excursus on various synonyms. Although the lexicon gave definitions of words, as most language dictionaries do, it also presented information about 161 synonyms (with an additional 132 in the excursus). Unfortunately, the synonym material from both the lexicon and the excursus has not been greatly used because these two portions have appeared for a number of years now as appendixes in Berry's Interlinear Greek-English New Testament. The present edition includes not only Berry's excursus but also the synonym discussions from the lexicon.

Two new sections have been added to Berry's Dictionary. (1) Trench's Synonyms of the New Testament have been combined with Berry's to produce 571 synonym groupings, which have been indexed to the recently released second English edition of Walter Bauer's Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament. (2) This same list of synonyms has also been indexed to Colin Brown's New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology.

Indeed, Berry's volume is just the right book for all who value the Word of God and "proper words in proper places."

Preface to the New Edition

Berry's synonym studies were originally part of his book A New Greek-English Lexicon to the New Testament, published by Wilcox & Follett in 1897. This volume contained a 110-page lexicon plus a 21-page excursus on various synonyms. Although the lexicon gave definitions of words, as most language dictionaries do, it also presented information about 161 synonyms (with an additional 132 in the excursus). Unfortunately, the synonym material from both the lexicon and the excursus has not been greatly used because these two portions have appeared for a number of years now as appendixes in Berry's Interlinear Greek-English New Testament. This neglect has been particularly true of the synonym analysis in the lexicon, since this analysis can be found only by using the book's index. The present edition includes not only Berry's excursus (Part 1) but also all the synonym discussions from the lexicon, with the latter material being in both Part 1: Synonym Distinctions and Part 3: Synonym Groupings With Index to Bauer's Greek English Lexicon.

Without a doubt, the classic book on synonyms is R. C. Trench's Synonyms of the New Testament. Trench discussed 323 synonyms and suggested 244 more in the preface to his eighth edition, but his extensive use of Latin has rendered many parts of his work unintelligible to most Bible students today. Although Berry used Trench and others (see footnote on page10), he avoided lengthy treatises; indeed, his studies of 293 synonyms are marked by clarity and conciseness. In Trench's and Berry's books, most of the major synonyms and many of the minor ones are either defined or grouped; so all the synonym listings from Trench's preface and text have been combined with those in Berry's lexicon and excursus to produce 574 synonym groupings. All these synonym groupings have been indexed to the recently released second English edition of Walter Bauer's Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament, which supplies bibliographical data and extrabiblical references necessary for synonym differentiations.

There have been a number of word-study books published subsequent to both Trench's and Berry's volumes, the most notable being Kittel and Friedrich's Theological Dictionary of the New Testament and Brown's New International Dictionary of New Testament Theology. Neither of these works has dealt solely with synonyms, but both have pointed out the implications, connotations, and applications of some word meanings and thus have provided a base for distinguishing certain synonyms. Because Brown's 3-volume set is more concise and up-to-date than Kittel and Friedrich's 10-volume set, the total synonym list from both Trench and Berry has been indexed to the former, though the diligent student will want to consult the 10-volume work. In fact, such a student can add to Trench's and Berry's lists by examining the entries in recent word-study books.

In light of the need for a new book devoted solely to New Testament synonyms, it is hoped that the present volume will be a catalyst to scholars and, in the process, will help the Bible student to appreciate the Swiftian phrase—"proper words in proper places."

The Publisher

Preface to the First Edition

A careful discrimination between synonyms in the study of 1 any language is a matter of the utmost importance, and also consequently of considerable difficulty. But there are some considerations which make a treatment of the synonyms of the New Testament especially difficult and especially necessary. The Greek language in classical times was one which was admirably adapted for expressing fine shades of meaning, and therefore one which abounded in synonyms. In later Greek, outside of the New Testament, some of these distinctions were changed or modified. The writers of the New Testament were men of Semitic habits of thought and expression. They also had theological and ethical teachings to impart which were far more profound and spiritual than had been conveyed by the Greek language previous to that time. These and other facts affecting the New Testament Greek necessarily modify the meaning of many of the synonyms there used, in some cases effecting a complete transformation.

The object in the present treatment is to consider the New Testament usage. Hence, the distinctions of classical Greek are stated only so far as they are also found in New Testament usage, or are of importance for determining the latter. For a discrimination of the distinctive meanings of New Testament synonyms, three things must usually be considered:

First, the etymological meaning of the words;

Second, the relations in which the words are found in classical Greek;

Third, the relations in which they are found in New Testament Greek, the last being often the chief factor.

The use of the words in the Septuagint is also important, for their connection with the Hebrew words which they are used to translate often throws light on their meaning.

The discussions here given aim to be brief, but yet to outline clearly the important and fundamental differences of meaning. Some words which are often given in works on this subject have been omitted, for the reason that the definitions as given in the Lexicon sufficiently indicate the important distinctions. There has been added, however, a consideration of some other words which are not so commonly included.

. 9

The chief works from which material and suggestions have been drawn are mentioned in the Introduction to the Lexicon.*

The reason is stated in the Introduction to the Lexicon why in some cases the same word is treated both in the synonyms of the Lexicon itself, and also in this place.† In every such instance the treatment here is to be regarded as supplementary to that in the Lexicon proper.

The synonyms here discussed do not belong exclusively nor chiefly to any one class of words. Both theological and non-theological terms are included. The aim has been to consider all the synonyms most likely to be confounded with one another, i.e., all those most important, for practical use, to the average student of the New Testament.

^{*&}quot;Much material has been drawn from R. C. Trench, Synonyms of the New Testament, and from the New Testament Lexicons of Thayer and Cremer, as well as from the small ones of Green and Hickie."

^{† &}quot;The original plan in reference to Synonyms was to give in the Lexicon itself definitions of a few of the most important ones. After most of the Lexicon was in type, however, it was decided, in view of the importance of the subject, that a very helpful feature would be a special section devoted to Synonyms. This has accordingly been prepared. The result is, of course, that a few words already treated in the Lexicon have here been given a fuller treatment." [This duplication has been eliminated in the 1979 edition except for cases where the lexicon gave additional information.]

PART 1 Synonym Distinctions

Pages 13-33 are Berry's excursus on synonyms in the original book A New Greek-English Lexicon to the New Testament. Pages 35-39 are from the lexicon itself.

§ 1. Holy, sacred, pure.

ίερος, δσιος, άγιος, άγνος, σεμνός.

None of these words in classical Greek has necessarily any moral significance. Those which now have such a meaning have developed it in Biblical Greek. lepós means sacred, implying some special relation to God, so that it may not be violated. It refers, however, to formal relation rather than to character. It designates an external relation, which ordinarily is not an internal relation as well. It is used to describe persons or things. This is the commonest word for holy in classical Greek, and expresses their usual conception of holiness, but it is rare in the N.T. because it fails to express the fullness of the N.T. conception. "orios, used of persons or things, describes that which is in harmony with the divine constitution of the moral universe. Hence, it is that which is in accordance with the general and instinctively felt idea of right, "what is consecrated and sanctioned by universal law and consent" (Passow), rather than what is in accordance with any system of revealed truth. As contrary to ὅσιος, i.e., as ἀνοσία, the Greeks regarded, e.g., a marriage between brother and sister such as was common in Egypt, or the omission of the rites of sepulture in connection with a relative. "ayios has probably as its fundamental meaning separation, i.e., from the world to God's service. If not the original meaning, this at any rate is a meaning early in use. This separation, however, is not chiefly external, it is rather a separation from evil and defilement. signification of the word is therefore the prominent one. This word, rare and of neutral meaning in classical Greek, has been developed in meaning, so that it expresses the full N.T. conception of holiness as no other does. aγνός is probably related to aγιος. It means specifically pure. But this may be only in a ceremonial sense, or it may have a moral signification. It sometimes describes freedom from impurities of the flesh. σεμνός is that which inspires reverence or awe. In classical Greek it was often applied to the gods. But frequently it has the lower idea of that which is humanly venerable, or even refers simply to externals, as to that which is magnificent. grand, or impressive.

§ 2. Sin.

άμαρτία, άμάρτημα, ἀσέβεια, παρακοή, ἀνομία, παρανομία, παράβασις, παράπτωμα, ἀγνόημα, ἦττημα.

appria meant originally the missing of a mark. When applied to moral things the idea is similar, it is missing the true end of life, and so it is used as a general term for sin. It means both the act of sinning and the result, the sin itself. ἀμάρτημα means only the sin itself, not the act, in its particular manifestations as separate deeds of disobedience to a divine law. dσέβεια is ungodliness, positive and active irreligion, a condition of direct opposition to God. παρακοή is strictly failing to hear, or hearing carelessly and inattentively. The sin is in this failure to hear when God speaks, and also in the active disobedience which ordinarily follows. dvoula is lawlessness, contempt of law, a condition or action not simply without law, as the etymology might indicate, but contrary to law. The law is usually by implication the Mosaic law.

\[\pi apavoula \text{ occurs only once, 2 Pet. ii. 16, and is \] practically equivalent to avouía. παράβασις is transgression, the passing beyond some assigned limit. It is the breaking of a distinctly recognized commandment. It consequently means more than άμαρτία. παράπτωμα is used in different senses, sometimes in a milder sense, denoting an error, a mistake, a fault; and sometimes meaning a trespass, a willful sin. άγνόημα occurs only once, Heb. ix. 7. It indicates error, sin which to a certain extent is the result of ignorance. httpue denotes being worsted, defeated. In an ethical sense it means a failure in duty, a fault. — All these different words may occasionally but not usually be used simply to describe the same act from different points of view. The fundamental meanings of these words may well be summed up in the language of Trench; Sin "may be regarded as the missing of a mark or aim: it is then αμαρτία or αμάρτημα; the overpassing or transgressing of a line: it is then $\pi a \rho a \beta a \sigma is$; the disobedience to a voice: in which case it is παρακοή; the falling where one should have stood upright: this will be παράπτωμα; ignorance of what one ought to have known: this will be ἀγνόημα; diminishing of that which should have been rendered in full measure, which is $\eta \tau \tau \eta \mu a$; non-observance of a law, which is ἀνομία οτ παρανομία."

$ 3. Sincere.

åπλοῦς is literally spread out without folds, and hence means single, simple, without complexity of character and motive. In the N.T. this idea of simplicity is always favorable; in classical Greek the word is also occasionally used in an unfavorable sense, denoting foolish simplicity. ἀκέραιος also means simple, literally free from any foreign admixture, unadulterated, free from disturbing elements. ἄκακος in Heb. vii. 26 means one in whom exists absence of all evil, and so by implication the presence of all good. It passes also through the merely negative meaning of absence of evil, found in S., to the unfavorable meaning of simple, easily deceived, credulous, which is found in Ro. xvi. 18. abolos, occurring only in I Pet. ii. 2, means sincere, unmixed, without guile.

§ 4. Sins of the tongue.

μωρολογία, used only once in the N.T., is foolish talking, but this in the Biblical sense of the word foolish, which implies that it is also sinful. It is conversation which is first insipid, then corrupt. It is random talk, which naturally reveals the vanity and sin of the heart. αισχρολογία, also used once, means any kind of disgraceful language, especially abuse of others. In classical Greek it sometimes means distinctively language which leads to lewdness. εὐτραπελία, occurring once, originally meant rersatility in conversation. It acquires, however, an unfavorable meaning, since polished, refined conversation has a tendency to become evil in many ways. The word denotes, then, a subtle form of evil-speaking, sinful conversation without the coarseness which frequently accompanies it, but not without its malignity.

§ 5. Shame, disgrace.

albus is the feeling of innate moral repugnance to doing a dishonorable act. This moral repugnance is not found in aloχύνη, which is rather the feeling of disgrace which results from doing an unworthy thing, or the fear of such disgrace which serves to prevent its being done. albus is thus the nobler word, aloχύνη having regard chiefly to the opinions of others. albus is the fear of doing a shameful thing, aloχύνη is chiefly the fear of being found out. "albus would always restrain a good man from an unworthy act, while aloχύνη might sometimes restrain a bad one" (Trench). εντροπή stands somewhat between the other two words in meaning, but in the N.T. leans to the nobler side, indicating that wholesome shame which leads a man to consideration of his condition if it is unworthy, and to a change of conduct for the better. σωφροσύνη, self-command, may not seem to have much in common with these three words. As a matter of fact, however, it expresses positively that which albus expresses negatively.

§ 6. Prayer.

εὐχή, when it means prayer, has apparently a general signification. προσευχή and δέησις are often used together. προσευχή is restricted to prayer to God, while δέησις has no such restriction. δέησις also refers chiefly to prayer for particular benefits, while προσευχή is more general. The prominent thought in εντευξις is that of boldness and freedom in approach to God. εὐχαριστία is thanksgiving, the grateful acknowledgment of God's mercies, chiefly in prayer. αἴτημα, much like δέησις, denotes a specific petition for a particular thing. In ίκετηρία the attitude of humility and deprecation in prayer is specially emphasized. All these words may indicate at times not different kinds of prayer, but the same prayer viewed from different stand-points.

§ 7. To rebuke; rebuke, accusation.

ἐπιτιμάω means simply to rebuke, in any sense. It may be justly or unjustly, and, if justly, the rebuke may be heeded or it may not. ἐλέγχω, on the other hand, means to rebuke with sufficient cause, and also effectually, so as to bring the one rebuked to a confession or at least a conviction of sin. In other words, it means to convince. A similar distinction exists between the nouns αίτία and ἔλεγχος. αἰτία is an accusation, whether false or true. ἔλεγχος is a charge which is shown to be true, and often is so confessed by the accused. It has both a judicial and a moral meaning.

§ 8. Boaster, proud, insolent.

άλαζών is properly a boaster, who tells great things concerning his own prowess and achievements, with the implied idea that many of his claims are false. This word naturally describes a trait which manifests itself in contact with one's fellow-men, not one which exists simply within the heart. ὑπερή-φανος describes one who thinks too highly of himself, describing a trait which is simply internal, not referring primarily to external manifestation, although this is implied. It means one who is proud, the external manifestation when it appears being in the form of arrogance in dealing with others. ὑβριστής describes one who delights in insolent wrong-doing toward others, finds pleasure in such acts. Cruelty and lust are two of the many forms which this quality assumes. These three words occur together in Ro. i. 30. They are never used in a good sense. They may be said to move in a certain sense in an ascending scale of guilt, designating respectively "the boastful in words, the proud and overbearing in thoughts, the insolent and injurious in acts" (Cremer).

§ 9. Incorruptible, unfading.

Κφθαρτος is properly incorruptible, unaffected by corruption and decay. It is applied to God, and to that which is connected with him. ἀμάραντος expresses the same idea in another way. It means unfading, the root idea being that it is unaffected by the withering which is common in the case of flowers. ἀμαράντινος, derived from ἀμάραντος, means composed of amaranths, i.e. of unfading flowers.

§ 10. Faultless, unblamed.

άμωμος, άμεμπτος, άνέγκλητος, άνεπίληπτος.

δμωμος is faultless, without blemish, free from imperfections. It refers especially to character. δμεμπτος is strictly unblamed, one with whom no fault is found. This of course refers particularly to the verdict of others upon one. ἀνέγκλητος designates one against whom there is no accusation, implying not acquittal of a charge, but that no charge has been made. Δνεπίληπτος means irreprehensible, designating one who affords nothing upon which an adversary might seize, in order to make a charge against him.

§ 11. Regeneration, renovation.

weakened sense to denote a recovery, restoration, revival. In the N.T. it is used only twice, but in a higher sense. In Tit. iii. 5 it means new birth, regeneration, referring to God's act of causing the sinner to pass from the death of sin into spiritual life in Christ. It has a wider meaning in Mat. xix. 28, where it is used of the change which is ultimately to take place in all the universe, its regeneration, which is the full working out of the change involved in the regeneration of the individual. avacaivages is renewal or renovation, denoting a continuous process through which man becomes more fully Christ-like, in which process he is a worker together with God. Some, as e.g. Cremer, without sufficient reason, have thought that the early use of $\pi a \lambda i \gamma \gamma \epsilon \nu \epsilon \sigma l a$ as a somewhat technical term, to denote the Pythagorean doctrine of transmigration, gave to the word a permanent eschatological coloring, so that in the N.T. it has the meaning resurrection, especially in Mat. xix. 28.

§ 12. Murderer.

Both in derivation and usage, φονεύς and ἀνθρωποκτόνος are distinguished from each other just as the English murderer from manslayer or homicide. σικάριος, used only in Ac. xxi. 38, is the Latin sicarius, and means an assassin, usually hired for the work, who furtively stabbed his enemy with a short sword, the Latin sica. φονεύς is a generic word and may denote a murderer of any kind, σικάριος being one of the specific varieties which it includes.

§ 13. Anti-Christ, false Christ.

ψευδόχριστος means a false Christ, a pretended Messiah, who sets himself up instead of Christ, proclaiming that he is Christ. Some have given about the same meaning to ἀντίχριστος. But it is much more probable that it means one diametrically opposed to Christ, one who sets himself up against Christ, proclaiming that there is no Christ.

§ 14. Profligacy.

The fundamental idea of ἀσωτία is "wastefulness and riotous excess; of ἀσέλγεια, lawless insolence and wanton caprice" (Trench). ἀσωτία means reckless and extravagant expenditure, chiefly for the gratification of one's sensual desires. It denotes a dissolute, profligate course of life. In ἀσέλγεια also there is included the idea of profligacy, often of lasciviousness, but the fundamental thought is the acknowledging of no restraints, the insolent doing of whatever one's caprice may suggest.

§ 15. Covenant-breaker, implacable.

These words are quite similar in their effects, but opposite in their conception. ἀσύνθετος, occurring only in Ro. i. 31, is covenant-breaker, one who interrupts a state of peace and brings on war by disregarding an agreement by which peace is maintained. ἄσπονδος is implacable, one who refuses to agree to any terms or suggestions of peace. It implies a state of war, and a refusal of covenant or even of armistice to end it permanently or temporarily. In the N.T. use both words probably refer not to war in the strict sense so much as to discord and strife.

§ 16. Beautiful, graceful.

dorelos is properly one living in a city, urban. It soon acquires the meaning urbane, polite, elegant. Then it obtains to a limited extent the meaning beautiful, although never in the highest degree. ωραίος, from ωρα, hour, period, means properly timely. From that comes the idea of being beautiful, since nearly everything is beautiful in its hour of fullest perfection. καλός is a much higher word. It means beautiful, physically or morally. It is, however, distinctly the beauty which comes from harmony, the beauty which arises from a symmetrical adjustment in right proportion, in other words, from the harmonious completeness of the object concerned.

§ 17. Wisdom, knowledge.

σοφία is certainly the highest word of all these. It is properly wisdom. It denotes mental excellence in the highest and fullest sense, expressing an attitude as well as an act of the mind. It comprehends knowledge and implies goodness, including the striving after the highest ends, as well as the using of the best means for their attainment. It is never ascribed to any one but God and good men, except in a plainly ironical sense. φρόνησις is a middle term, sometimes having a meaning nearly as high as σοφία, sometimes much lower. It means prudence, intelligence, a skillful adaptation of the means to the end desired, the end, however, not being necessarily a good one. γνώσις is knowledge, cognition, the understanding of facts or truths, or else insight, discernment. επίγνωσις has an intensive meaning as compared with γνώσις, it is a fuller, clearer, more thorough knowledge. The verb ἐπιγινώσκω has the same intensive force as compared with γινώσκω.

SYNONYM DISTINCTIONS

§ 18. Religious.

θεοσεβήs, according to derivation and usage, means worship of God (or of the gods), a fulfillment of one's duty towards God. It is a general term, meaning religious in a good sense. εύσεβής is distinguished from θεοσεβής in two ways. It is used to include the fulfillment of obligations of all kinds, both towards God and man. It is thus applied to the fulfillment of the duties involved in human relations, as towards one's parents. Furthermore, when used in the higher sense, it means not any kind of worship, but, as the etymology indicates, the worshipping of God aright. εὐλαβήs, meaning originally careful in handling, in its religious application means careful in handling divine things. It characterizes the anxious and scrupulous worshipper, careful not to change anything that should be observed in worship, and fearful of offending. It means devout, and may be applied to an adherent of any religion, being especially appropriate to describe the best of the Jewish θρήσκος is one who is diligent in the performance of the outward service of God. It applies especially to ceremonial worship. δεισιδαίμων, in accordance with its derivation, makes prominent the element of fear. It emphasizes strongly the ideas of dependence and of anxiety for divine favor. It may be used as practically equivalent to $\theta \epsilon o \sigma \epsilon \beta \dot{\eta} c$. Often, however, it implies that the fear which it makes prominent is an unworthy fear, so that it comes to have the meaning superstitious. In the N.T. it is used, as is also the noun δεισιδαιμονία, in a purposely neutral sense, meaning simply religious, neither conveying the highest meaning, nor plainly implying a lower meaning.

§ 19. Pure.

clλικρινήs denotes chiefly that which is pure as being sincere, free from foreign admixture. καθαρός is that which is pure as being clean, free from soil or stain. The meaning of both in the N.T. is distinctly ethical. dularros is unspotted, describing that which is far removed from every kind of contamination.

§ 20. Assembly, church.

According to their derivation, συναγωγή is simply an assembly, a mass of people gathered together; exchapola is a narrower word, also an assembly, but including only those specially called together out of a larger multitude, for the transaction of business. ἐκκλησία usually denotes a somewhat more select company than συναγωγή. A significant use of ἐκκλησία in strict harmony with its derivation was common among the Greeks. It was their common word for the lawful assembly in a free Greek city of all those possessing the rights of citizenship, for the transaction of public affairs. They were summoned out of the whole population, "a select portion of it, including neither the populace, nor strangers, nor yet those who had forfeited their civic rights" (Trench). συναγωγή had been, before N.T. times, appropriated to designate a synagogue, a Jewish assembly for worship, distinct from the Temple, in which sense it is used in the N.T. Probably for that reason, and also for its greater inherent etymological fitness, ἐκκλησία is the word taken to designate a Christian church, a company of believers who meet for worship. Both these words, however, are sometimes used in the N.T. in a non-technical sense. πανήγυρις, occurring only in Heb. xii. 23, differs from both, denoting a solemn assembly for festal rejoicing.

§ 21. Humility, gentleness.

ταπεινοφροσύνη is humility, not the making of one's self small when he is really great, but thinking little of one's self, because this is in a sense the right estimate for any human being, however great. πραότης is founded upon this idea, and goes beyond it. It is the attitude of mind and behavior which, arising from humility, disposes one to receive with gentleness and meekness whatever may come to him from others or from God.

§ 22. Gentleness.

Both words may be translated gentleness, yet there are marked differences in meaning. upating is rather passive, denoting, as has been said above, see § 21, one's attitude toward others in view of their acts, bad or good. Emiliation is distinctly active, it is seen in one's deeds toward others, and it usually implies the relation of superior to inferior. It is fundamentally a relaxing of strict legal requirements concerning others, yet doing this in order more fully to carry out the real spirit of the law. It is clemency in which there is no element of weakness or injustice.

§ 23. Desire, lust.

ξπιθυμία is the broadest of these words. Its meaning may be good, but it is usually bad. It denotes any natural desire or appetite, usually with the implication that it is a depraved desire. πάθος has not as broad a meaning as in classical Greek, but denotes evil desire, chiefly, however, as a condition of the soul rather than in active operation. δρμή indicates hostile motion toward an object, either for seizing or repelling. δρεξις is a desire or appetite, especially seeking the object of gratification in order to make it one's own.

§ 24. Affliction.

θλίψις according to its derivation means pressure. In its figurative sense it is that which presses upon the spirit, affliction. στενοχωρία meant originally a narrow, confined space. It denotes affliction as arising from cramping circumstances. In use it cannot always be distinguished from $\theta\lambda$ ίψις, but it is ordinarily a stronger word.

§ 25. Bad, evil.

These words may be used with very little distinction of meaning, but often the difference is marked. rands frequently means evil rather negatively, referring to the absence of the qualities which constitute a person or thing what it should be or what it claims to be. It is also used meaning evil in a moral sense. It is a general antithesis to ayabós. movness is a word at once stronger and more active, it means mischief-making, delighting in injury, doing evil to others, dangerous, destructive. rands describes the quality according to its nature, movneós, according to its effects. $\phi a\text{0.000}$ is the bad chiefly as the worthless, the good for nothing.

§ 26. Punishment.

rimple in classical and N.T. usage denotes especially the vindicative character of punishment, it is the punishment in relation to the punisher. Rólagus in classical Greek meant usually punishment which aimed at the reformation of the offender. But sometimes in later Greek, and always in the N.T., the idea of reformation seems to disappear, so that there remains simply the idea of punishment, but viewed in relation to the punished.

§ 27. To pollute.

meant originally to stain, as with color. μολύνω meant originally to smear over, as with mud or filth, always having a bad meaning, while the meaning of μαίνω might be either good or bad. According to classical Greek, μαίνω has a religious meaning, to profane, while μολύνω is simply to spoil, disgrace. As ethically applied in the N.T. they have both practically the same meaning, to pollute, defile. It is, however, true that μαίνω, to judge from classical usage, refers chiefly to the effect of the act not on the individual, but on others, on the community.

§ 28. To do.

ποιέω, πράσσω,

These words are often used interchangeably, but in many cases a distinction can be drawn. ποιέω refers more to the object and end of an act, πράσσω rather to the means by which the object is attained. Hence, while ποιέω means to accomplish, πράσσω may mean nothing more than merely to busy one's self about. ποιέω often means to do a thing once for all, πράσσω, to do continually or repeatedly. From these distinctions it follows that ποιέω, being on the whole the higher word, is more often used of doing good, πράσσω more frequently of doing evil.

§ 29. Fleshly, fleshy, sensual.

σαρκικός, σάρκινος, ψυχικός.

σαρκικός means fleshly, that which is controlled by the wrong desires which rule in the flesh, flesh often being understood in its broad sense, see sape. It describes a man who gives the flesh the dominion in his life, a place which does not belong to it by right. It means distinctly opposed to the Spirit of God, anti-spiritual. σάρκινος properly means fleshy, made of flesh, flesh being the material of which it is composed. When given a bad meaning, however, it is plainly similar to σαρκικός, but according to Trench not so strong, denoting one as unspiritual, undeveloped, rather than antispiritual. Others, as Cremer and Thayer, with more probability make σάρκινος the stronger, it describes one who is flesh, wholly given up to the flesh, rooted in the flesh, rather than one who simply acts according to the flesh (σαρκικός). There is much confusion between the two in the N.T. manuscripts. ψυχικός has a meaning somewhat similar to σαρκικός. Both are used in contrast with πνευματικός. But ψυχικός has really a distinct meaning, describing the life which is controlled by the ψυχή. It denotes, therefore, that which belongs to the animal life, or that which is controlled simply by the appetites and passions of the sensuous nature.

§ 30. Mercy, compassion.

Both words denote sympathy, fellow-feeling with misery, mercy, compassion. Theos, however, manifests itself chiefly in acts rather than words, while olkrippés is used rather of the inward feeling of compassion which abides in the heart. A criminal might ask for theos, mercy, from his judge; but hopeless suffering may be the object of olkrippés, compassion.

§ 31. To love.

άγαπάω, and not φιλέω, is the word used of God's love to men, φιλανθροπία is, however, once used with this meaning, Tit. iii. 4. άγαπάω is also the word ordinarily used of men's love to God, but φιλέω is once so used, 1 Cor. xvi. 22. άγαπάω is the word used of love to one's enemies. The interchange of the words in Jn. xxi. 15-17 is very interesting and instructive.

§ 32. To will, to wish.

In many cases these two words are used without appreciable distinction, meaning conscious willing, purpose. But frequently it is evident that a difference is intended, although there is much difference of opinion as to the exact distinction. Thayer says that β oύλομαι "seems to designate the will which follows deliberation," θ έλω, "the will which proceeds from inclination." Grimm, on the other hand, says that θ έλω gives prominence to the emotive element, β ούλομαι to the rational and volitive; θ έλω signifies the choice, while β ούλομαι marks the choice as deliberate and intelligent. The view of Cremer on the whole seems preferable to any other. According to this view, β ούλομαι has the wider range of meaning, but θ έλω is the stronger word, θ έλω denotes the active resolution, the will urging on to action, see Ro. vii. 15, while β ούλομαι is rather to have in thought, to intend, to be determined. β ούλομαι sometimes means no more than to have an inclination, see Ac. xxiii. 15. Instructive examples of the use of the two words in close proximity are found in Mar. xv. 9, 15, and especially Mat. i. 19.

§ 33. Schism.

σχίσμα, αξρεσις.

σχίσμα is actual division, separation. αῖρεσις is rather the separating tendency, so it is really more fundamental than σχίσμα.

§ 34. Mind, understanding.

νούς, διάνοια.

voos is distinctly the reflective consciousness, "the organ of moral thinking and knowing, the intellectual organ of moral sentiment" (Cremer). Siávoia meant originally activity of thinking, but has borrowed from voos its common meaning of faculty of thought. It is more common than voos, and has largely replaced it in its usual meanings.

§ 35. Law.

wours is the common word meaning law. It may mean law in general. In the N.T., however, it usually means the law of God, and most frequently the Mosaic law. Θεσμός is law considered with special reference to the authority on which it rests. Εντολή is more specific, being used of a particular command. δόγμα is an authoritative conclusion, a proposition which it is expected that all will recognize as universally binding.

§ 36. Type, image.

τύπος has many meanings, among the most common being image, pattern or model, and type. In the last sense it means a person or thing prefiguring a future person or thing, e.g., Adam as a type of Christ, Ro. v. 14. ἀντίτυπος, as used in 1 Pet. iii. 21, is by Thayer and many others thought to correspond to τύπος as its counterpart, in the sense which the English word antitype suggests. By Cremer it is rather given the meaning image.

§ 37. To ask.

αίτεω, έρωτάω.

Thayer, as opposed to Trench and others, would make the distinction between these two words to be this: "alτέω signifies to ask for something to be given, not done, giving prominence to the thing asked for rather than the person, and hence is rarely used in exhortation. ἐρωτάω, on the other hand, is to request a person to do (rarely to give) something; referring more directly to the person, it is naturally used in exhortation, etc."

§ 38. World, age.

αλών, κόσμος.

It is only in a part of their meanings that these two words are in any real sense synonymous, and it is that part which is here considered. Both A. V. and R. V. often translate alών by world, thus obscuring the distinction between it and κόσμος. alών is usually better expressed by agc, it is the world at a given time, a particular period in the world's history. κόσμος has very frequently an unfavorable meaning, denoting the inhabitants of the world, mankind in general, as opposed to God. A similar meaning is often attached to alών, it means the spirit of the age, often in an unfavorable sense. See Ep. ii. 2, where both words occur together. An exceptional meaning for the plural of alών is found in Heb. i. 2 and xi. 3, where it denotes the worlds, apparently in reference to space rather than time.

§ 39. Rest.

Both words in a certain sense mean rest, but from different standpoints. ἀνάπαυσις is rest which comes by cessation from labor, which may be simply temporary. avects means literally the relaxation of strings which have been drawn tight. Hence, it is used to designate ease, especially that which comes by relaxation of unfavorable conditions of any kind, such as affliction.

§ 40. Wind.

πνεῦμα when used in its lower meaning to denote wind means simply an ordinary wind, a regularly blowing current of air of considerable force. πνοή is distinguished from it as being a gentler motion of the air. ἄνεμος, on the other hand, is more forcible than πνεῦμα, it is the strong, often the tempestuous, wind. λαῖλαψ is the violent fitful wind which accompanies a heavy shower. θύελλα is more violent than any of the others, and often implies a conflict of opposing winds.

§ 41. Old.

According to their derivation, $\pi \alpha \lambda \alpha i \delta s$ is that which has been in existence for a long time, $d\rho \chi \alpha i \delta s$ that which has been from the beginning. In use, at times no distinction can be drawn. Often, however, $d\rho \chi \alpha i \delta s$ does denote distinctively that which has been from the beginning, and so it reaches back to a point of time beyond $\pi \alpha \lambda \alpha i \delta s$. $\pi \alpha \lambda \alpha i \delta s$ has often the secondary meaning of that which is old and so worn out, having suffered more or less from the injuries and ravages of time, its opposite in this sense being $\kappa \alpha i \nu \delta s$.

§ 42. Harsh, austere.

abornpos has not necessarily an unfavorable meaning. It is well represented by the word austere, it means one who is earnest and severe, strict in his ways, opposed to all levity. By implication it may have the unfavorable meaning of harshness or moroseness. σκληρόs has always an unfavorable meaning. It indicates one who is uncivil, intractable, rough and harsh. There is in it the implication of inhumanity.

§ 43. Darkness.

σκότος is a general word, meaning darkness in any sense. γνόφος usually refers to darkness that accompanies a storm. ζόφος meant originally the gloom of twilight. It was then applied in classical Greek to the darkness of the underworld, the gloom of a sunless region. The latter meaning seems to be practically the one which the word has in the N.T. ἀχλύς is specifically a misty darkness.

§ 44. People, nation.

λαόs is a word which is usually limited in use to the chosen people, Israel. εθνος in the singular is a general term for nation, applied to any nation, even to the Jews. In the plural it ordinarily denotes all mankind aside from the Jews and in contrast with them, the Gentiles. δημος is a people, especially organized and convened together, and exercising their rights as citizens. δχλος is a crowd, an unorganized multitude, especially composed of those who have not the rights and privileges of free citizens.

§ 45. Servant, slave.

δοῦλος is the usual word for slave, one who is permanently in servitude, in subjection to a master. Θεράπων is simply one who renders service at a particular time, sometimes as a slave, more often as a freeman, who renders voluntary service prompted by duty or love. It denotes one who serves, in his relation to a person. διάκονος also may designate either a slave or a freeman, it denotes a servant viewed in relation to his work. οἰκέτης designates a slave, sometimes being practically equivalent to δοῦλος. Usually, however, as the etymology of the term indicates, it means a slave as a member of the household, not emphasizing the servile idea, but rather the relation which would tend to mitigate the severity of his condition. ὑπηρέτης means literally an under-rower, and was used to describe an ordinary rower on a war-galley. It is then used, as in the N.T., to indicate any man, not a slave, who served in a subordinate position under a superior.

§ 46. To adulterate.

καπηλεύοι, δολόοι.

Both these words mean to adulterate, and some maintain that they are practically identical. But it is more probable that δολόω means simply to adulterate, while κατηλεύω conveys the idea of adulterating for the sake of making an unjust profit by the process.

§ 47. Animal.

ζώον, θηρίον.

Living is a general term, meaning living creature, which may include all living beings, in classical Greek even including man. In the N.T. it means ordinarily animal. Onpion is beast, usually wild beast. It implies perhaps not necessarily wildness and ferocity, but at least a certain amount of brutality which is wanting in $\zeta \tilde{\omega}$ on. $\zeta \tilde{\omega}$ on emphasizes the qualities in which animals are akin to man, $\theta \eta plon$, those in which they are inferior.

§ 48. Sea.

θάλασσα is the more general word, indicating the sea or ocean as contrasted with the land or shore. It may be applied to small bodies of water. πίλαγος is the open sea, the uninterrupted expanse of water, in contrast with the portions broken by islands or with partly inclosed bays. The prominent thought is said by Trench to be breadth rather than depth. Noteworthy is the distinction between the two words in Mat. xviii. 6.

§ 49. To grieve.

λυπέομαι, πενθέω, θρηνέω, κόπτομαι.

Authoral is the most general word, meaning simply to grieve, outwardly or inwardly. πενθέω means properly to lament for the dead. It is also applied to passionate lamentation of any kind, so great that it cannot be hid. θρηνέω is to give utterance to a dirge over the dead, either in unstudied words, or in a more elaborate poem. This word is used by S. in describing David's lament over Saul and Jonathan. κόπτομαι is to beat the breast in grief, ordinarily for the dead.

§ 50. Form, appearance.

ιδέα denotes merely outward appearance. Both μορφή and σχήμα express something more than that. They too denote outward form, but as including one's habits, activities and modes of action in general. In μορφή it is also implied that the outward form expresses the inner essence, an idea which is absent from $\sigma \chi \hat{\eta} \mu a$. μορφή expresses the form as that which is intrinsic and essential, $\sigma \chi \hat{\eta} \mu a$ signifies the figure, shape, as that which is more outward and accidental. Both $\sigma \chi \hat{\eta} \mu a$ and $i\delta \hat{\epsilon} a$ therefore deal with externals, $\sigma \chi \hat{\eta} \mu a$ being more comprehensive than $i\delta \hat{\epsilon} a$, while μορφή deals with externals as expressing that which is internal.

§ 51. Clothing.

lμάτιον is used in a general sense to mean clothing, and may thus be applied to any garment when it is not desired to express its exact nature. In a more specific use, however, it denotes the large loose outer garment, a cloak, which ordinarily was worn, but in working was laid aside. χιτών is best expressed by the word tunic. It was a closely fitting under-garment, isually worn next the skin. At times, especially in working, it was the only garment worn. A person clothed only in the χιτών was often called γυμιός (Jn. xxi. 7). ἰμάτιον and χιτών are often found associated as the upper and under garment respectively. Ιματισμός does not denote a specific garment, but means clothing, being used, however, ordinarily only of garments more or less stately or costly. χλαμύς is a robe or cloak, it is a technical expression for a garment of dignity or office. στολή is any stately robe, ordinarily long, reaching to the feet or sweeping the ground, often worn by women. ποδήρης was originally an adjective meaning reaching to the feet. It can hardly be distinguished in use from στολή. It occurs only in Rev. i. 13.

§ 52. New.

véos, kaivés,

whose is the new as contemplated under the aspect of time, that which has recently come into existence. Kaivos is the new under the aspect of quality, that which has not seen service. Kaivos therefore often means new as contrasted with that which has decayed with age, or is worn out, its opposite then being \(\pi a \lambda a \lambda i \sigma \). It sometimes suggests that which is unusual. It often implies praise, the new as superior to the old. Occasionally, on the other hand, it implies the opposite, the new as inferior to that which is old, because the old is familiar or because it has improved with age. Of course it is evident that both \(\nu \equiv \sigma \) and \(\nu a \nu \nu \equiv \sigma \) may sometimes be applied to the same object, but from different points of view.

§ 53. Labor.

μόχθος, πόνος, κόπος.

μόχθος is labor, hard and often painful. It is the ordinary word for common labor which is the usual lot of humanity. πόνος is labor which demands one's whole strength. It is therefore applied to labors of an unusual kind, specially wearing or painful. In classical Greek it was the usual word employed to describe the labors of Hercules. κόπος denotes the weariness which results from labor, or labor considered from the stand-point of the resulting weariness.

§ 54. Drunkenness, drinking.

μέθη, πότος, οἰνοφλυγία, κῶμος, κραιπάλη.

μέθη is the ordinary word for drunkenness. πότος is rather concrete, a drinking, carousing. olvoφλυγία is a prolonged condition of drunkenness, a debauch. κῶμος includes riot and revelry, usually as arising from drunkenness. κραιπάλη denotes the sickness and discomfort resulting from drunkenness.

§ 55. War, battle.

πόλεμος, μάχη.

πόλεμος ordinarily means war, i.e., the whole course of hostilities; μάχη, battle, a single engagement. It is also true that μάχη has often the weaker force of strife or contention, which is very seldom found in πόλεμος.

§ 56. Basket.

σπυρίς, κόφινος.

These words in the N.T. are used with an evident purpose to discriminate between them. The distinction, however, does not seem to have been chiefly one of size, as some have thought, but of use. The is usually a basket for food, a lunch-basket, a hamper, while kookivos is a more general term for basket. The descriptions of the two miracles of feeding the multitude use always different words in the two cases, see e.g. Mar. viii. 19, 20.

§ 57. It is necessary.

δεί, δφείλει.

δεῖ, the third person of δέω, is commonly used impersonally in classical Greek. This usage is less common, but frequent, in the N.T. δεῖ indicates a necessity in the nature of things rather than a personal obligation, it describes that which must be done. δφείλει indicates rather the personal obligation, it is that which is proper, something that ought to be done.

§ 58. Tax.

φόρος indicates a direct tax which was levied annually on houses, lands, and persons, and paid usually in produce. τέλος is an indirect tax on merchandise, which was collected at piers, harbors, and gates of cities. It was similar to modern import duties. κήνσος, originally an enrollment of property and persons, came to mean a poll-tax, levied annually on individuals by the Roman government. δίδραχμον was the coin used to pay an annual tax levied by the religious leaders of Israel for the purpose of defraying the general expenses of the Temple.

§ 59. Tax-collector.

The Roman system of collecting taxes, especially the $\tau \ell \lambda \omega_i$, in their provinces, included ordinarily three grades of officials. There was the highest, called in Latin publicanus, who paid a sum of money for the taxes of a certain province, and then exacted that and as much more as he could from the province. This man lived in Rome. Then there were the submagistri, who had charge each of a certain portion of territory, and who lived in the provinces. Then there were the portitores, the actual customhouse officers, who did the real work of collecting the taxes. The N.T. word TELOURS is used to describe one of the portitores, it is the lowest of these three grades. It does not correspond to the Latin publicanus, and the word publican used to translate it in A. V. and R. V. is apt to be misleading, tax-collector would be better. άρχιτελώνης, only occurring in Lu. xix. 2, evidently describes a higher official than τελώνης, and is probably one of the submagistri, the next higher grade.

§ 60. Child.

τέκνον and ulós both point to parentage. τέκνον, however, emphasizes the idea of descent, giving prominence to the physical and outward aspects; while νίος emphasizes the idea of relationship, and considers especially the inward, ethical, and legal aspects. παῖς as well as τέκνον emphasizes the idea of descent, but gives especial prominence to age, denoting a child as one who is young. παῖς is also often used of a servant. The number of years covered by the term παῖς is quite indefinite. Its diminutives παιδίον and παιδίσκος in classical Greek and) παιδίσκη, in which the diminutive force is largely lost, cover the years of late childhood and early youth.

§ 61. Tribe, family, household.

φυλή, πατριά, obcos.

These words form a series. $\phi u \lambda \dot{\eta}$ is sometimes a race, nation, but usually a tribe, such as one of the twelve tribes of Israel, descended from the twelve sons of Jacob. $\pi \alpha \tau \rho i \dot{\alpha}$ is a smaller division within the tribe, it is an association of families closely related, in the N.T. generally used of those descended from a particular one of the sons of Jacob's sons. olkos is yet narrower, household, including all the inmates of a single house, being the unit of organization.
